Dear Mr. Kerkuta:

A claim to a water right can be filed only with one priority date. You claim the irrigation commenced in 1935 and the ponds were added in 1961.

You have the choice of reducing the priority to 1961 for the entire system; filing two claims (this method of filing requires an additional $30.00 filing fee); deleting all reference to the ponds and using the 1935 priority date (this method of filing may cause you to lose the storage water right or cause a future filing with a substantial fee increase).

Please contact me within thirty (30) days to clarify your filing and avoid the increased fee.

Sincerely,

TOM D. KING

1. The first step is to identify the problem. In this case, the problem is that the system is not working properly.

2. The next step is to gather information about the problem. This includes checking the logs, talking to the users, and looking at the system architecture.

3. Once you have gathered information, you can start to diagnose the problem. This involves looking for patterns in the data and testing different hypotheses.

4. Once you have diagnosed the problem, you can start to fix it. This may involve changing the code, updating the hardware, or reconfiguring the system.

5. Finally, you should test the system to make sure the problem is fixed. This involves running the system through a series of tests and checking the results.
