I, Robert Neumeyer, attest that J.R. McFarland has been using water from Farnam Creek, a tributary of the Kootenai River, for the purpose of a domestic water supply for five residences, stock watering and irrigation. Stock watering includes 600 head of cattle, 200 head of sheep and 10 horses. Approximately 300 acres are under irrigation from June 15 through October 15 each year. I have had first hand knowledge of this water use since 1968.
