10. Remarks We have recently completed a master planning study of our municipal water system, December, 1976. This plan estimated that our present population of 1,691 persons will grow to 2,800 by 1996. The plan concluded that both present and future water supply needs can be met with this well and our other two existing wells, if used in conjunction with storage facilities. Without the right to divert water from this well, we would not be able to meet present or future supply needs. Thus to insure an unobstructed supply of water, it is necessary to utilize water from this source .

This well was constructed under permit No. 36-7061. Because of some past misunderstandings, that permit expired therefore requiring the submittal of this application.

STATE OF IDAHO DEPARTMENT OF WATER RESOURCES

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ACCESS PORT INSTALLATION

Purpose

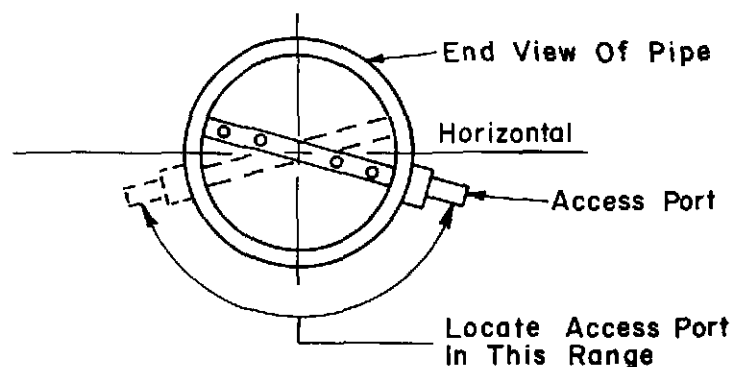

The Department of Water Resources' examiners now have portable measuring devices to measure the flow of water in a pipe flowing full. However, for them to be able to use these devices you must install an access port in your pipeline. You, of course, may wish to install a permanent measuring device or have the flow of your system measured and certified by a professional engineer.

General Requirements

The access port shall be made by welding a 1½ inch welding coupling onto the supply pipe as shown on the attached figures. These welding couplings may be obtained at most plumbing supply dealers.

The access port must be installed at least 24 pipe diameters downstream from the pump, at least 9 pipe diameters downstream and at least 4 pipe diameters upstream from any flow restrictions such as reducers, elbows or control valves. Control valves should be located downstream from the access port. The above required distances may be reduced if straightening vanes are installed in the pipe.

The coupling must be installed perpendicular to the pipe axis and also so that the centerline of the port passes through the center of the pipe. The access should be installed on the side of the pipe, as shown in the following sketch, to eliminate the problem of air in the pipe interfering with the measuring device reading.

Specific Requirements

The type of access port necessary, between Figure 1 and Figure 2 on the back of this page, depends on whether you are willing to turn off your diversion system during the installation of the measuring device.

An access port constructed as shown on Figure 1, access port cold tap, is acceptable if you are willing to turn off your system during the installation of the measuring device. This installation should take no longer than thirty minutes.

An access port constructed as shown in Figure 2, access port hot tap, is necessary if you are not willing to turn your system off during the installation of the measuring device. The valve must be a 1½ inch gate valve with a clear opening of at least one inch. This hot tap can only be made on systems that have pressures less than 70 pounds per square inch. If your system pressure is greater than 70 pounds per square inch, then it must be turned off during the measuring device installation.

If you have questions about the access port, please contact the department's nearest regional office.

IN THE MATTER OF CHANGING THE MEASURING
DEVICE REQUIREMENT FOR PERMIT NO. 36-7722

ORDER

WHEREAS, the above numbered permit was approved with the condition that a measuring device of a type approved by the Department be permanently installed and maintained as part of the diverting works; and,

WHEREAS, on July 1, 1978, the Department adopted a new water measurement condition which states: "An access port or other device as specified by the Department shall be installed by the permit holder to provide for the installation of measuring equipment and the determination of the rate of diversion by the Department"; and,

WHEREAS, the former condition required the permit holder to purchase and install a measuring device or hire a professional engineer to certify the rate of diversion; and,

WHEREAS, the measuring device condition effective July 1, 1978, requires less capital expenditure by the permit holder; and,

WHEREAS, to be equitable to holders of permits issued prior to July 1, 1978, the new condition should be retroactive;

NOW THEREFORE, it is hereby ordered that the condition of approval of this permit related to water measurement is hereby changed as follows:

"The permit holder shall either install a measuring device or provide a certified measurement by a professional engineer or install an access port or other device as specified by the Department".
