Dear Mr. Coburn:

I have finished the Department's initial review of the two claims you filed with this office on June 23, 1986. Both claims have been receipted and the Department will proceed with processing of them.

I feel obligated, however, to inform you that by statutory standards the rate of diversion listed on each claim is considerably excessive. The rate of diversion on permits approved by the Department of Water Resources is limited under section 42-202 Idaho Code to .02 cfs per acre. This same rate of diversion is also the basis by which courts have historically adjudicated water throughout Idaho. To obtain a water right for the amounts of water listed on your claims would require a showing that those amounts are actually needed in order to satisfy the water demand for the crops raised in your area. This justification normally consists of a soils analysis and an analysis of the consumptive use requirements of the plants in your area.

At this time you may not wish to pursue a court adjudication of these claims. However, I would still urge you to provide any information which would substantiate your historical use of the water. This information will be placed in the permanent file of the claim and is available upon request for any future court actions.

Respectfully submitted,

Ernest Carlsen
