Gentlemen:

We have received your claims filed on fish propagation purposes.

However, the enclosed claim was filed for water from a groundwater source. Under description of diverting works it states a reservoir. Groundwater is any water where an excavation is made to divert the water. If an excavation has been made previously which allowed water to fill in and form a lake, pond, etc., and another person comes in and puts a pump in this lake, the water is then considered a surface water source.

In the case of this claim it is hard to tell if the source is actually groundwater. We did correct the sources on the other claims to either the name of the lakes or just ponds. Please either change the source, or further explain your diverting works on the enclosed claim and return it to this office for processing.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact us.

Sincerely,

Jan Grover
