DATE 7-23-80

SUBJECT Claims To A Water Right Filed In The Name Of Helen Murdoch Fassett

On this date I had a telephone conversation with Robert Sherwood, son of the claimant. He stated that there was no actual diversion of water from the upper spring; the claimed water flowed through a natural water course from its start to its discharge into the Big Wood River. The lower spring is diverted at a dam which forms a small man-made lake. Although both claims show domestic use, Mr. Sherwood stated that neither spring had ever been used for this purpose. His intent was to reserve this flow for possible future development of domestic uses, according to him. I explained that such developments would require an application for permit instead of a claim, but he wished to show domestic use on the claims.
