Honorable Graydon W. Smith
Attorney General
B U I L D I N G

Dear Sir:

We are enclosing Application for transfer of water right for your consideration.

Said transfer proposes the transfer of a Decreed water right transferring water from an approximate 6 acre tract to the remainder of the 40 acre tract to which the water right of 40 inches was originally decreed. Reason for transfer, Applicant disposes of part of his land with holding water right therefrom.

When waters of Little Wood River were decreed for irrigation purposes the Court set the amount of water per acre at 1 inch.

Our question, has this Department the authority by the Approval of said application for transfer to increase the amount of water per acre over and above the amount decreed by the Court?

In issuing permits the Department of Reclamation is restricted to the approval of not over 1 inch per acre for irrigation purposes from the same source of supply.

We would appreciate being advised, if a water user purchases water rights decreed by the Courts has he the legal right to transfer additional waters to lands by which he would create a water right in excess of 1 inch per acre delivered from the same source of supply?

Thanking you for an early reply, we are,

Attention: Mr. Roy W. Thompson, Supervisor
Water Distribution

Dear Sir:

Your letter of March 28 inquires whether a water user who purchases water rights theretofore decreed by the courts to another, has the legal right to transfer the same or some part thereof to lands other than those upon which the former owner had used the same, if in so doing he would create a water right in excess of the amount per acre established by such decree, the water to be taken from the same source of supply.

This apparently originates from a proposed purchase by the State Fish & Game Department of a small strip of land off the east side of a 40-acre tract, the seller reserving the water which could otherwise be used on the purchased strip. It seems that the seller has applied to your Department for approval of his application for use of the water on the balance of the 40-acre tract, which is about 34 acres.

In my opinion such a transfer does not "create a water right". The water right already exists and the question really is, can he use the amount of water due him pursuant to that right, on the 34-acre remaining tract?

I do not believe the responsibility in such a matter rests with your Department. A decree such as the one here applicable is premised on the number of acres, and the given amount per acre is merely the measure of the right. I do not think such a decree can be taken as requiring that the water be used at all times on the whole tract, requiring that the amount decreed, here one inch per acre, be used on each and every acre at all times. We know that such is not irrigation practice, and I know of no requirement that compels such mathematical usage. Water rights may be purchased and transferred to other users for use on their variously owned lands, apparently the only requirement being that in distributing the purchased water rights to such other users they must be so distributed as not to discriminate in favor of some users and so to the detriment of others. This seems to have been the net result in the case of Beecher vs. Cassia Creek Irrigation Co. (1943), 66 Idaho 1. In the instant matter there can be no favoritism or detriment to the users because the owner of the right still intends using the water on his own land. In my opinion, the chance he takes is that, if by so doing he does not put the additional water, which would be practically six inches, to beneficial use, someone else may appropriate that six inches after five years have gone by and the original owner would suffer the consequences. In addition, it would make no difference whether he applied for and received approval of the transfer from your office, or not. The fundamental requirement of beneficial use would still be there, and he would act at his own peril.

In closing, it may be appropriate to mention that such transfers as here concerned have been approved from time to time in the Department of Reclamation, notably the one in the Beecher case, above cited, and it is my belief that there is no provision of law that prevents your Department's approval of such transfer. If others assert conflicting claims such as above outlined, that is a matter for the courts to pass upon.

Yours very truly,

J. R. SMEAD

RE: Adamson Bros., Inc.

Dear Sir:

Enclosed you will find application by Adamson Brothers, Inc., to abandon use of certain water rights from a portion of the SW $\frac{1}{4}$ NE $\frac{1}{4}$, Sec. 26, Township 1 S. Range 21, E.B.M., to other property owned by them. I am enclosing herewith abstract of title to the property involved, together with other properties owned by the Adamson Brothers, Inc. Also, the original application with questionnaire, certificate of G. Wilford Sparks, H. Cloyd Mecham, water users, water consent to transfer executed by Little Wood River Irrigation District directors and Little Wood River Canal Company directors, together with storage water transfer and map attached. You will note from this application that the reason for this transfer is to keep in the Adamson Brothers, Inc. all water rights appurtenant to grounds which they are selling to the State of Idaho for the use and benefit of the Fish and Game Commission.

Mr. Ted A. Biladeau is familiar with the proposed transfer and if you would call upon him, I know he could explain the situation between the Fish and Game Commission and the Adamson Brothers, it being understood that this land is being transferred completely free of water rights.

It would be appreciated if you would return the enclosed abstract directly to Adamson Brothers, Inc., % D. E. Adamson, Carey, Idaho, as soon as you have finished with it as this is one of their valuable records.

If you wish to forward to me the notice for publication in this matter, I will take it to the Hailey Times and see that it is published and that the service charges for such publication are paid. I do not know what fees are involved in this, and if you would advise me, concerning it, I would forward you necessary filing fee, if any.
