SUBJECT: App For Transfer, Dennis Koyle

Today I got a call from Mr. Koye checking on the status of his transfer. I looked at the file to see what was going on, and noticed that you had contacted the canal people to find out if both farms had canal water. Koyle told me that he owned 2 farms along the Big Wood River that were historically operated as a single system. The north farm has BWCC water, and the south farm has the well & AFRD #2 water. All 3 sources were co-mingled and used wherever they were needed. Koyle kept the groundwater right so that he could move it to the 3rd farm, which is along the Little Wood River just above where the 2 streams meet. He said that the 3rd farm also has AFRD #2 water. He was going to try to get me information from Lynn Harmon, who manages both canal outfits, but said that AFRD apparently does not issue share certificates like BWCC does. Hope this helps.
