Re: 85-7323

Gentlemen:

A field examination was conducted on June 14, 1984 as a final step before issuance of a water license on the above-referenced permit.

During the examination, it was discovered that while the legal description indicated for the point of diversion appears to be correct, the Lewis County Assessor's Office does not show any property in that legal description being owned by yourselves.

The application does indicate that you own the property at both the point of diversion and the place of use. Please contact this office to clear this matter up so that a water right license can be issued.

Sincerely,
