Dear Sir.

The last 2 or 3 years we have had a hard time trying to get water through our canal. I would like to know if it is permissible to pump some water from the river when our canal won't carry it. and what procedure would I have to go to?

all so there is a canal that was dug some years ago. and has never had a head-gate in it. it is washing wider every year and is gradually changing the course of Bear river. Is the party that owns the canal required by law to put in a controll gate?

The canal I refer too to pump out of is the snuffer canal at Pegram Ida.

Yours Very Truly.

Ivan R. Dugby.

Mr. Ivan K. Rigby
Pegram,
Idaho

Dear Mr. Rigby:

We wish to acknowledge your letter of March 16th, in which you request if it would be permissible to pump some water direct from the river for the reason that your canal cannot carry the full amount of water for your use and you request to know what procedure you would have to go through in order to pump from Bear River direct.

We think before you apply for a second point of diversion for your water right and install your pumping equipment, that an inspection should be made either by the watermaster of your district or by someone from this Department.

You can apply for permission to divert a part of your water right by pumping from Bear River which would necessitate applying to this Department for an additional point of diversion. We are enclosing a blank form for this purpose which you may fill out and return to this office. However, before submitting said application to this Department it should be approved by the watermaster of Water District No. 5, Mr. Russell D. Stoker.

You also state that there is a canal from Bear River that has never had a headgate in it and is washing wider every year and is gradually changing the course of Bear River and you request to know if the owner of the Canal is required by law to put in a control gate.

The State statutes, also the Bear River Decree, states that no water can be diverted from said stream without having a control gate. This condition will be looked into by either the watermaster of Bear River or someone from this Department during the early part of the season.
