I also know of the date because on Saturday November third, 1945, I accompanied DeVere to his home for lunch where we were informed that Mrs. Stock had left for the Montpelier Hospital. There at three-fourty-five in the afternoon gave birth the a son. The following day, a Sunday we had our first big snow fall which prevented completion of the spring, which is stated here as being the George Findlay Clayhole Spring, until April of 1946.

I also know the spring wasn't completed until April 1946, when I lent a hand in the final completion of the line--I remember it especially because of the number of rocks which came up during the final rod.
