Bryan,

Thank you for returning your Notice of Error. After reviewing your comments, I'd like to take a moment to explain the rationale behind IDWR's recommendations. Please see below:

97-8198 – The recommended domestic use will cover the water supplied to your shop and garage since they are associated with your home. You referenced a recent addition of a living quarters above the garage. If you would like that to be included on the recommendation, the priority date of 5/1/1970 would be forfeited and replaced with the date that the living quarters was connected to the well. I'm assuming you'd rather keep the older priority date since it is an important component of your claim. As the recommendation stands, the additional living quarters, shop/garage and home are all covered under the recommended domestic use, as long as the use stays below 13,000 gallons per day. If you would like to discuss this more, please let me know.

97-8629 – You should have already received a call from Jared Klay regarding this. The lot referenced on the recommendation is for government lot 3, which is different from a subdivision lot. Based on PLSS information, the property associated with your claim is in Government Lot 3, which is what is printed on the recommendation. For reference, the subdivision information for the parcel does include lot 2, but that information will not appear on the recommendation.

I hope that clears up any confusion. Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns.

Best,
