7. Proposed diverting works:

- a. Describe type and size of devices used to divert water from the source.

Water is diverted at the diversion point from an unnamed spring. This diversion point is the same diversion point for water rights 24-7173, 24-7174, and 24-7175. There is a pipe in the ground at the source of the spring. Water flows through this pipe into an approximate 500-gallon reservoir. This reservoir is attached to another approximate 500-gallon reservoir (See the picture below as a reference). There is a 2" plastic irrigation pipe (PIP) waterline running from the second reservoir down the mountain.

Once the pipeline gets into the valley there is a split in the line where some of the water is diverted for the water rights 24-7173 and 24-7174. As the pipeline continues across the valley there is a second split in the line where a portion of the water goes to water right 24-7175.

The pipeline continues onto the property of Connie Anderson (Applicant) where there is an overflow that relieves water pressure in the pipeline. This overflow valve is essential not only for applicant but for the owners of 24-7173, 24-7174, and 24-7175 as it relieves pressure in the pipeline which prevents breakage. This over flow that benefits three different landowners is on Applicant's property (See below picture for reference). The leaving this overflow can flow toward an unnamed creek and Miller Creek.

Also on Applicant's property is a valve which can turn the water on or off for the residence on the property. There is also a spigot on Applicant's property that is at times used to assist the overflow line.

This system has been in place since water rights were issued to 24-7173, 24-7174, and 24-7175. At that same time there was a water right for this property, 24-7038. 24-7038 has since been disallowed with prejudice. Applicant was unaware the water right had been disallowed with prejudice and is making this application to restore domestic use to the residence. Applicant understands a domestic water right for use from a stream does not allow for any irrigation in excess of half of an acre.
