5. Description of diverting works:

Water is diverted from Swan Lake Creek. On the upper field we flood irrigate by use of an irrigation tarp that we put in the creek to push the water onto the fields. We also have a gravity fed system that pulls water from the creek where it meets the road. Water is gravity fed through a pipe to our sprinkler system to water the lower fields. Originally we had planned on diverting the water to a pond and pumping from there, but it was more feasible to use gravity than to pump the water. Originally the fields were all flood irrigated. In the 1990's we put in a sprinkler system and have used both sprinklers and flood irrigation ever since.

Priority Date Explanation:

This is the date given on the statutory claim. To the best of our knowledge this is when the system was first put in to irrigate this ground. We reviewed the Swan Lake Idaho History book which covers the town history from 1865 to 2011. The irrigation ditch goes under the rail road which was built in 1879. The ditch was a concrete structure that goes under the railroad and surfaces on the other side. We believe this structure would have been put in prior to laying down the railroad so that the water could continue to flow down to the fields. When we converted to a sprinkler system, we ran a pipe through this structure with the supervision of the railroad company.
