October 30, 2023

Dear Sirs,

I initially applied for a water right permit in 2016, which was approved in December 2018 after the Latah County Commission withdrew their objection to the permit application. The original application was for a single home domestic water use, and for irrigation of a 1.5 acre garden area, both provided by one well (drilled in 1999). Water has been used for those purposes since my initial application. In 2021, I began construction of a second residential home on the same farm property, which was completed earlier this year (2023). In addition to the second home, which is situated approximately 200 feet from the original residence, I had a second well drilled in September 2021, to provide water for domestic use for the second home. So our current water usage for the property includes domestic use for 2 homes, and irrigation for the same 1.5 acre garden. I have not measured my total water consumption rate, but the 2 wells (at time of drilling) produced 20 gpm (the first well drilled in 1999) and 6 gpm (second well drilled in 2021) – the drilling information included on the statement of completion form. When I purchased the farm property in May 2009, I had the existing well tested, and it produced 9 gpm at that time. Lastly, Latah county required that the address of the property be changed from 4410 Hwy 8 (when there was only one home) to a “Lane” given the two homes on the property. My present mailing address is 1024 Ashmor Lane, Troy, ID 83871 – again, this is the same location as the previous address of 4410 Hwy 8, Troy. I have included a change in address form with this correspondence.

Sincerely,

V Karen Hixson
