11-4222 map.pdf;

Good afternoon, Melissa,

Thank you for providing the affidavit and the page from the book. I have a few additional questions regarding your claim #11-4222.

First, regarding the text you submitted:

- Could you please identify the book from which the page was taken, and indicate whose voice or perspective the book is written in? The context of the provided page is unclear, as it does not include certain details such as dates, locations, and names.

Second, I would appreciate more detailed explanations of how water is diverted from the springs to each of the following areas of use:

- Stockwater: Please clarify whether the water is piped into a trough or if livestock drink directly from the source. If it is piped to a trough were please mark the location a note it on the provided map.
- Domestic: The claim states that the original use was for a homestead and that the use later changed. Please describe in detail how water is diverted to the camping area, explain how the water is used in that camping capacity, and indicate whether it is connected to any structure. If so, please identify where that structure is located and specify the exact use location on the provided map.
- Irrigation: Based on aerial imagery dating back to 1953, the area showing signs of development appear smaller than what was claimed. Please outline on the provided map where irrigation is occurring and explain how the area is being irrigated and when this irrigation began.

* regarding the map if you are not able to mark following the legend please note what each area is by writing next to it.

If any additional questions arise, I will reach out with further inquiries. If any of the other parties listed on the claim form have relevant information, they are welcome to provide their input using the contact information below. I look forward to hearing from you soon so we can move toward completing your claim.

Regards,
